Achievement standard Year 9 and Year 10

	Year 9	Year 10
Original	By the end of Year 9, students refer to key events and the actions of individuals and groups to explain patterns of change and continuity over time. They analyse the causes and effects of events and developments and make judgements about their importance. They explain the motives and actions of people at the time. Students explain the significance of these events and developments over the short and long term. They explain different interpretations of the past. Students sequence events and developments within a chronological framework, with reference to periods of time and their duration. When researching, students develop different kinds of questions to frame a historical inquiry. They interpret, process, analyse and organise information from a range of primary and secondary sources and use it as evidence to answer inquiry questions. Students examine sources to compare different points of view. When evaluating these sources, they analyse origin and purpose, and draw conclusions about their usefulness. They develop their own interpretations about the past. Students develop texts,	By the end of Year 10, students refer to key events, the actions of individuals and groups, and beliefs and values to explain patterns of change and continuity over time. They analyse the causes and effects of events and developments and explain their relative importance. They explain the context for people's actions in the past. Students explain the significance of events and developments from a range of perspectives. They explain different interpretations of the past and recognise the evidence used to support these interpretations. Students sequence events and developments within a chronological framework, and identify relationships between events across different places and periods of time. When researching, students develop, evaluate and modify questions to frame a historical inquiry. They process, analyse and synthesise information from a range of primary and secondary sources and use it as evidence to answer inquiry questions. Students analyse sources to identify motivations, values and attitudes. Proposed	By the end of Year 9, students evaluate the historical significance of the events, ideas, figures and groups in the making of the modern world. They sequence and explain the events, ideas, individuals and groups that contributed to making change in the modern world between 1759 and 1918. Students analyse the causes and effects of events and developments. They analyse patterns of continuity and change and evaluate the extent to which change occurred. Students develop criteria to evaluate historical significance. Students develop and refine different kinds of questions about the past. They describe the origin and content of sources and explain the purpose and context of sources. Students compare sources to determine their usefulness and reliability for use as evidence. Students compare and explain different perspectives of the past and determine how people's perspectives are influenced by their contexts and experiences. They analyse different historians' interpretations of the past and justify reasons for different opinions, points of view and/or contested debates. Students develop their own interpretations about the past. They construct and communicate a historical argument by using knowledge, relevant evidence and the application of historical thinking concepts.	By the end of Year 10, students evaluate the historical significance of events, ideas, figures and groups in the modern world and Australia in its global content. They sequence and analyse the events, ideas, historical figures, individuals and groups that contributed to causing change between 1918 and the present day. Students analyse significant causes and effects of events and developments. They evaluate patterns of continuity and change and the most significant changes brought to society. Students develop, refine and apply criteria to judge historical significance. Students develop, evaluate and refine different types of questions about the past. They analyse and compare sources and evaluate their usefulness and reliability as evidence to support their historical arguments. Students compare perspectives and evaluate how they are influenced by events, ideas, location, beliefs and values. They evaluate different historians' interpretations of the past, recognise the evidence used to support these interpretations and investigate at least one contested historical debate. Students develop and justify their own interpretations about the past. Students communicate a historical argument by using knowledge, evidence and the application of historical thinking concepts.
